Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over admitted prior art and Chen et al. (US 6,468,362).

Admitted prior art teaches a wet etching method of a substrate to form deep trench for a DRAM cell comprising: etching the substrate in a first HF tank (claimed vessel); rinsing substrate in second tank; etching the substrate in a third NH₄OH tank; rinsing the substrate in a fourth tank; and drying the substrate (pages 1-2 of the specification). Unlike claimed invention, admitted prior art doesn't describe the first rinsing agent comprising at least one wetting agent. Chen describes a method for cleaning the substrate wherein the cleaning solution comprises of a surfactant (claimed rinsing comprising wetting agent) (col. 2, line 65-67; col. 7, line 7-20). It would have been obvious for one skilled in the art to modify admitted prior art in light of Chen by using a cleaning solution with a surfactant because Chen teaches that it would clean the substrate with minimal water marks and residues (col. 1, line 47-57; col. 10, line 31-36).

Referring to claims 6, 17, Chen describes the wetting agent concentration is 0.01-0.1% by V (claimed 0.01-0.1 % by wt).

Referring to claims 7, 9, 18, 19, 20, admitted prior art describes the deep trench has aspect ratio of 50 or more are possible (page 1, line 30-35).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's argument that one skilled in the art would not have been motivated to modify the admitted prior art in light of Chen because Chen uses the wetting agent for different reason than the present invention's intention, which is to aid in a subsequent etching process carried out on the substrate, is found unpersuasive because the fact that applicant has recognized another advantage which would flow naturally from following the suggestion of the prior art cannot be the basis for patentability when the differences would otherwise be obvious. See Ex parte Obiaya, 227 USPQ 58, 60 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1985).

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
